ACCOUNTANT/AUDITOR

What do Accountants and Auditors do?

Accountants and auditors analyze financial information and prepare financial reports to determine or maintain records of assets, liabilities, profit and loss, tax liability, and other financial aspects to an organization. Auditors specifically are responsible for examining and analyzing accounting records to determine the financial status of businesses, and prepare financial reports concerning operating procedures. In each of these careers, you will be working frequently with numbers and finances. Many accountants and auditors specialize, depending on the particular organization that they work for. Some work for organizations that specialize in assurance services, risk management, or by specific industries such as healthcare.
